NORTHCLIFFE ENDS CAREER; WORLD FIGURE

Publisher of London Times Dies of Heart Failure After Long Illness

ENGLAND MOURNS LOSS

Worked for Better Understanding Between United States and Empire

London, Aug. 14.—Viscount Northcliffe, noted British publicist, died this morning. News of Northcliffe's death was given out by the doctors who have been attending him, in this bulletin:

"Viscount Northcliffe died at 10:12 o'clock. The end was perfectly peaceful."

Later it was stated that the cause of Lord Northcliffe's death was suppurative, or the production of pus within the heart, which was followed by acute blood poisoning.

Death Expected

The death of no other unofficial person could have made a deeper impression in England than that of Lord Northcliffe. The news was not a surprise, as the bulletins issued by the doctors for the last week plainly indicated that their patient was dying. The nature of the fatal disease has not yet been revealed, but it is expected the public will soon be told.

Lord Northcliffe was by far the most noted figure in British journalism and the first question on everyone's lips was as to what effect his death will have on the policies of the Times and his other newspapers, which since the end of the war have strongly opposed the Lloyd George administration and its principles with the notable exception of its dealings with Ireland, which Northcliffe press supported throughout.

The medical terms used in giving the cause of Lord Northcliffe's death were ulcerative endocarditis, streptococcal septicemia and terminal syncope.

This, in popular parlance, means an inflammation on the lining membrane of the heart, with consequent infection of the blood, and sudden failure of the heart due to fainting.

Son of Barrister

Viscount Northcliffe, the son of an Irish barrister, became an editor at 17 years, owner and publisher of the London Times and Daily Mail, the most powerful influence in the making and unmaking of British cabinets and, who with David Lloyd George, contributed in a great measure to arousing England to more vigorous action in the war.

He was created Baron of the Isle of Thanet in 1905 and made a Viscount in 1917 after he had served with distinction as head of the British Mission to the United States to consolidate British interests during the war.

To Viscount Northcliffe is ascribed the arousing of the British public to a knowledge of the fact that the British army in France was insufficiently equipped with high explosive shells, that British guns on the French front were short of ammunition and that Lord Kitchener, then Secretary of State for War, was sending the British gunners' shrapnel while Sir John French, as commander, was appealing for the same kind of high explosives that Germany was hurling over the lines in vast quantities.

This exposure has been characterized as one of the outstanding journalistic feats of the war. It resulted in the appointment of David Lloyd George as the first British Minister of Munitions and put him on the road to become Prime Minister.

FIRE DESTROYS BUILDINGS ON I. P. BAKER FARM

Loss of Upwards of $5,000 Caused in Fire Late Saturday Afternoon

Fire of undetermined origin burned down a house, barn and other buildings on the farm of I. P. Baker, south of the Northern Pacific tracks and west of the jail park shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The blaze burned fiercely and the entire house was in flames soon after the fire was discovered.

Workers on the new road noticed the fire and notified William Dahlheimer, who lives in the house. He was working on some machinery nearby. He rushed to the house, opened a door and narrowly escaped a severe burning from the blast which issued. Mrs. Dahlheimer and children were downstairs at the time.

The fire department was called and hose was stretched from a hydrant at the end of Main street. Two stacks of hay burned but the wind did not carry the flames to several stacks of recently cut wheat. The wood carriage on a cement kiln was burned off. Because of the direction of the wind the fire just missed a great deal of machinery.

A Tribune carrier boy reported an incident of the fire. A cat and kittens were caught in the loft of a barn. The mother cat braved the fire and rescued all of her kittens, carrying them safely to the ground.

Loss on the Buildings is Estimated at about $4,000 with $1,200 insurance. Mr. Dahlheimer carried $800 insurance on household goods which will not replace the loss.

LOUIS EGER, A PIONEER RANCH OWNER, IS DEAD

Killdeer, N. D., Aug. 14.—The death of Louis Eger, father of Fred Eger of Manning, occurred last Sunday at his home in Tacoma, Wash. It followed the passing of his wife by fourteen months, lacking three days.

The Egers came to Dickinson in 1887 lived there two years and moved to Medora where Mr. Eger worked on the packing plant of the Count DeMores, famed in fact and fiction of those pioneer times.

Thence they moved to Rapid City, S. Dak., but returned shortly by ox team and settled on the present Eger ranch property on the Little Knife east of Manning, thirty two years ago. About five years ago they sold the ranch property to their son, Fred and moved out to Tacoma where both the old folks passed away, and where both have been buried.

Miss Effie Eger, Mr. and Mrs. Manley Cone and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Frazier were at the bedside of the deceased during his last illness. The following children survive: Mrs. A. S. Robinson of Burbank, Cal.; Mrs. Harry Barker of Portland, Oregon; Mrs. Wm. McCarty of Summers, Wash.; Mrs. P. Frazier, Mrs. M. Cone and Miss Effie Eger of Tacoma, Wash., and Fred Eger of Manning, N. D.

The deceased was eighty-four years old and was born in Berlin, Germany, being eight years old when he came to this country. When Mr. Eger first came to Dickinson buffalo hides were piled up around the village like cordwood. Another fact which will stir the memories of all old timers of this section is the connection of Mr. Eger with the DeMores packing plant. He was likewise well acquainted with Teddy Roosevelt and bought many horses from him at the old Maltese Cross ranch.

D'Annunzio Is Seriously Injured

(By the Associated Press) Gardone Riviera, Italy, Aug. 14.—Gabriel D'Annunzio, Italy's noted soldier-poet was seriously injured in the head by a fall yesterday in the garden of his villa here.

TEN KILLED IN WRECK CAUSED BY OIL TANK

Soo Flyer Crashes Into Truck at Annandale.—Many Injured

MAIN LINE BLOCKED

More Bodies May Be Found As Debris Is Cleared Away

Annandale, Minn., Aug. 14.—Work of clearing up the debris caused by the wreck of passenger train No. 107 on the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railway here late Saturday, was "on" on the way towards completion today. The death list this morning stood at 10 with the possibility that one or two more bodies might be found in the wreckage.

The debris of one of the three coaches which were wrecked remained to be removed this morning. The main line which was blocked for 24 hours was cleared yesterday and trains were proceeding as usual today.

Nine of the dead had been identified and arrangements made for their funerals. With the exception of half a dozen persons, most of the forty injured in the wreck were well on the way to recovery today. Two of the injured were being cared for here and the others in Minneapolis.

The wreck occurred when an oil truck driven by Fred Lamar was struck by the passenger train. The truck broke a switch and crushed into the engine of a freight train standing on a side track. The freight engine of the freight was turned over and three passenger coaches split the switch and plowed into the freight and the box cars.

Trainmen said they had warned Lamar of the oncoming passenger but that he did not heed them.

The coroner announced that an inquest will not be held.

THE DEAD

Emil Mylikanagas, Annandale; Albert Zollner, Adrian, Minnesota; Arne Thompson, Annandale; Edmund Ulrich, Harrison, Wis.; Fred Lamar, Maple Lake, Minn.; Robert Becker, St. Paul, Minn.; C. W. Wallace, Minneapolis, Minn.; A. Clark, Eden Valley, Minnesota; Raymond Ulrich, Harrison, Wis.

MERCURY GOES TO 100 MARK

Reaches High Point of Season at 3 o'Clock Sunday

With the hottest months of the summer passing the weather lords got busy and finally pushed the mercury to the 100 mark for the benefit of those who will be wishing for the good old summer time along about the middle next January.

The thermometer registered 97 Saturday and Sunday began creeping again, reaching its highest point of 100 about three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Most of the residents of Bismarck who sweltered Sunday in the heat will agree that the thermometer of the weather bureau did not register any lower than it really was. About the only people who missed the full effect of the heat at 3 o'clock were the baseball fans who were pulling for a rally by the Bismarck team just about that time.

Yesterday was the first time the thermometer has touched 100 since August 31, 1921. Forecasters reported 101 for yesterday, while London reported a temperature of 100.

The heat blanket was spread all over the plains states and the Mississippi Valley. Weather bureau reports today stated that it was not as hot over most of the plains states today with prospects of a breeze sending the mercury down somewhat here. The high point yesterday is pretty close to the August record, but missed it by a few degrees.

FARGO SWELTERS

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 14.—With a temperature of 96 at two o'clock this afternoon, Fargo today experienced its hottest day of the year, according to R. E. Spencer, United States observer just across the Red River at Moorhead, Minnesota.

SIX SPEEDERS ADDED TO TOLL

Six more arrests for speeding marked the week-end campaign of the police, the arrests occurring in different parts of the city. The total number is now about 40.

TO NAME REPRESENTATIVE

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 14.—Executive committees of the Fargo Commercial, Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs at the request of Governor B. A. Nestos today met and selected a committee empowered to choose a citizen of the state who will be recommended to the governor as North Dakota's Washington representative during the coal crisis. The governor made the request for a suggestion when he visited Fargo last evening. It follows the meeting of northwest governors with Governor J. A. O. Preus at Minneapolis this week.

KILLS WIFE THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

(By the Associated Press) Denver, Aug. 14.—William L. Palm, well-known Denver attorney killed his wife Julia, and then, police believe, turned the gun upon himself and ended his life at his home here yesterday. Mrs. Palm was killed in a bath tub. Palm left a note addressed to his sister, Mrs. C. F. Greenwood, Lake Mills, Wisconsin, saying that because of ill health, life had become unbearable and he had "decided to take a chance with his wife in the happy land beyond."

RECEIVE BIDS FOR BUILDING AT DICKINSON

Board of Administration Does Not Act on Bids Submitted at Fargo

Bids for the construction of the proposed new main building for the Dickinson-Normal school were received in Fargo Saturday afternoon by the state board of administration. No contract was let and will not be for several days, it is understood.

Bids for the general construction of the building range from $223,000 to $245,000 and bids for the mechanical equipment, including electric work, were around $100,000.

There were several alternative propositions on which bids were submitted, making a comparison difficult.

It is possible, it is said, that bids may be accepted under which the building could be built within the legislative appropriation. One of the alternative propositions was to leave out a proposed wing containing an auditorium and gymnasium.

Bidders for the general construction work were: Gauger-Korsmo Construction Company, St. Paul; A. J. Weinberger, Beach; Chas. Bakke, Dickinson; T. F. Powers and Co., Fargo.

Bidders on mechanical equipment included T. P. Reilly, Fargo; B. K. Skeels, Bismarck; T. S. Heiligan, Jamestown; Fargo Electric Co., A. C. Campbell, Fargo; Moorhead Plumbing and Heating Co., E. A. Grashel, Grand Forks; F. G. Grambs, Bismarck; The Greenwald Co., Fargo; Dakota Plumbing and Heating Co., Mandan; Heating and Plumbing Co., Bismarck.

The building will be three stories in height. Construction probably will be started this year and the building finished next year.

DEFER ACTION

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 14.—Action by the state board of administration on the main building to be erected at the Dickinson normal school has been postponed until Wednesday when the board is scheduled to meet at Bismarck. F. S. Talcott, a member, said today. Engagement of H. D. Meyer, San Francisco, as instructor of commercial subjects and economics at the agricultural college was authorized here Saturday by the board, he announced.

SEN. KING TO FIGHT CASE

Gave Up Time and Money for Company, Says Attorney

William Langer, attorney for former State Senator King, one of the former directors of the Equity Co-operative Packing Company and now a defendant in the $111,000 suit brought by John Burke and Usher L. Burdick as attorneys for the new Board of Directors of the Equity Co-operative Packing Company, today stated that Mr. King and his associates would fight the case to a finish.

"Mr. King was and is, absolutely honest," said Mr. Langer. "He gave unsparingly of his time and energy to build up the Equity Co-operative Packing Company plant. There is not an insinuation, even on the part of his enemies, that he wronged or profited by one penny. He repeatedly left his own business and was gone day after day at a time for the company at a distinct monetary loss to himself."

"It may be that some of the officers of the company especially those hired by the executive committee may have grafted and embezzled money, but Mr. King will have no difficulty in showing that if this took place it was without his knowledge and also that he was not careless or negligent in the conduct of affairs of the Equity Co-operative Packing Company but that he used reasonable care and handled the affairs of the Company with the same degree of care which he used in handling his own personal affairs. He will, of course fight the case to a finish."

STREETER SUED FOR $20,000 IN LIBEL CASE

Linton, N. D., Aug. 14.—B. H. Tork, Emmons county engineer, has brought suit against F. E. Streeter, editor of the Emmons County Record, asking $20,000 damages for alleged libel based upon statements appearing in the Record in its issue of May 11, 1922.

Charges involving handling of county bridge work published in the newspaper from the basis of the suit.

OFFER MADE BY HARD COAL MEN TO END STRIKE

President of Operators Association Wires Lewis He Will Confer with Him

SOFT COAL PARLEYS

Early Peace in Bituminous Fields Seen Despite Hitch in Negotiations

(By the Associated Press) Philadelphia, Aug. 14.—Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company and spokesman for the anthracite coal operators, announced today that he had notified John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers that the mine owners were willing to resume operations in the hard coal fields at the old wage scale pending the appointment of a commission to investigate the situation. Mr. Warriner said he had telegraphed Mr. Lewis last night suggesting that a conference of anthracite operators and representatives of the miners be held in this city Wednesday.

Mr. Warriner's action followed a conference yesterday with United States Senator George Wharton Pepper, Governor Spruill, W. J. Richards, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, and William A. Glasgow, Jr., counsel for the United Mine Workers.

At this meeting, it became known today, Senator Pepper read a letter from President Harding in which the president declared that further delay in the resumption of mining would mean "danger of nothing short of national disaster."

When the joint sub-scale committee met, its members were informed that no agreement had been made by Mr. Lewis and Mr. Gallagher. Both leaders had refused to be moved from their opposing stands as to compulsory arbitration. The report of the failure precipitated sharp debate.

After a week spent in preliminaries, the joint conference of miners and soft coal operators controlling an annual production of 40,000,000 tons today was near a show down in its negotiations for peace.

President John L. Lewis of the miners was optimistic as to the peace possibilities, expecting the end of the soft coal parley to come by tomorrow evening. Some operators also forecast opening of some mines Wednesday.

The president said that no time was to be lost in getting the men in the mines and that if mining was resumed at once, "the future consequences of past delays must necessarily be serious. But, if there is any further delay we will shall be in danger of nothing short of a national disaster."

President Harding suggested that the operators take the men back at the wage scale in effect on March 1, 1922, when the suspension began, "until a commission or other agency has had an opportunity to examine into the whole situation."

LEWIS ACCEPTS OFFER

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—An offer to end the anthracite strike by agreeing to the wage scale in force when the strike was called was received today by President John L. Lewis of the miners. It came from S. D. Warriner, heading the anthracite operators scale committee.

Accepting Mr. Warriner's invitation to meet the operators in conference at Philadelphia on Wednesday, Mr. Lewis said:

"The broad promise upon which you have based your invitation is commendable and augurs well for the success of the conference. The miners withdrew from the sub-scale committee meeting soon after the disagreement had been reported. The operators, however, continued in session until 1 o'clock with some of them plainly stating that they did not want the conference here to fail on account of the arbitration proposal. President Lewis and the miners were asked to meet with the operators in the afternoon to consider a settlement with those operators."

OPERATORS TO RENEW REQUEST TO SEC. HOOVER

Replying to the telegrams addressed to Herbert Hoover asking that a representative of North Dakota lignite operators be appointed as a member of the operators' advisory committee to the national fuel administrator, National Administrator Spencer has suggested that a representative of the entire Northwest consulting public be named. The request of the operators for a representative on the advisory committee will be renewed, believing that Mr. Spencer has not understood the spirit of their request.

Governor Nestos is looking for a North Dakota citizen of good standing who would be willing to represent the state at Washington during the coal emergency, at his own expense. The Northwest Governors in their meeting in St. Paul decided that each state should have representation.

One Wedding Not Delayed by Strikes

Sergeant Frank Becker of the Illinois guards and Miss Theresa Frank, Chicago, had everything arranged for their wedding when he was ordered to fight against the strike at Bismarck. He was married at camp. Here Lieut. Col. Richmond is kissing the bride just after the ceremony.

P. O. COULDN'T FIND MAN WHO WON ELECTION

That the postal authorities in a given legislative district would not know where to find a man who had been nominated as a candidate for the North Dakota house of representatives seems hardly probable, but it occurred in the recent primary. In the forty-eighth district, A. F. Donahue received the vote of the Democrats as a candidate for the house. The county auditor of that county gave his residence as Dunn Center was returned to the rolls. The secretary of state, marked, "Not Known Here."

CAHILL CASE UP TOMORROW

Will Be Heard in District Court by Judge Coffey

Judge J. A. Coffey of Jamestown will hear the case in which the state seeks to oust J. L. Cahill from the state board of administration, the hearing to be held in district court here tomorrow morning. Judge Coffey is serving because of the illness of Judge Nussle.

The state and R. B. Murphy, who was appointed to Cahill's place by Governor Nestos, are plaintiffs. Cahill is serving as a member of the board under a restraining order issued in district court at Mandan prohibiting interference with his activities.

L. B. HANNA SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

Finds Prospects in Western North Dakota Very Good

Former Governor L. B. Hanna of Fargo, spent Sunday at the Lewis and Clark hotel in Mandan, in which he is interested, coming to Mandan from the northern part of the state.

Mr. Hanna and his son, Robert, made a long automobile trip, covering a good part of the state. They inspected land near Minot where the former governor has holdings, stopped at the Washburn Coal company's mine at Wilton.

Governor Hanna told friends in Mandan that he not only found crops in excellent condition but that he believed prospects for the future for western North Dakota were especially bright.

He drove over the new Missouri river bridge, returning to Fargo to day.

DIES OF HEART TROUBLE

Napoleon, N. D., Aug. 11.—Calvin Kusler, a former cashier of the Merchants Bank at Napoleon, died of late manager of the Thompson Yards at Forbes, died Monday at the Abbott Hospital at Minneapolis after a protracted illness of the past two months, with heart trouble, with which he had been a sufferer for several years.

PARK BOARD ORGANIZES

Rauch, N. D., Aug. 14.—First June Messers, Lovgren, Smith, Rie, O. C. Attlewood and W. F. Cushing were elected park commissioners for this city, the council having created such a body by ordinance in May. The new commissioners organized for work with the following officers: W. F. Cushing, president; H. L. Roy, secretary.

BOMBS, FIRES, RIOTS, MARK RAIL STRIKE

Passengers Marooned in Desert Suffer from Long Delay in Schedule

TRAIN IS BOMBED

Railroad Shops at Wichita Falls Are Fired and Flames Work Havoc

(By the Associated Press)

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen today instructed two vice presidents of his organization to go immediately upon the Santa Fe coast lines where illegal strikes of trainmen are reported in effect and trains marooned.

"Instructions were given the vice presidents," Mr. Lee said, "to insist that all laws of the brotherhood regarding cessation of work be complied with and membership continue at work." Mr. Lee declined to say anything further regarding the railroad situation.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—New knots in railroad transportation of the far west; bombing of a passenger train loaded with excursionists at Granton Junction, N. J.; dynamiting of Frisco railroad bridge at Ash Grove, Mo., and destruction by fire of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railway shops at Wichita Falls, Texas, marked the early hours of the rail strike's seventh week while rail heads and strike leaders were deadlocked over President Harding's proposals for peace.

The walkout of Santa Fe train crews, who left their trains stranded in the deserts of California, Arizona and New Mexico, spread to other lines and as the railroad paralysis crept on to new centers, maintenance-of-way men in the New York district petitioned their national leaders for a strike order.

MANY STRANDED Santa Fe officials, manning the stranded trains at Needles, California moved marooned passengers out of the desert, but 19 trains on the system were still tied up when more crews quit.

One thousand passengers stranded at Albuquerque, New Mexico, on the Santa Fe, appealed to President Harding for relief and federal inquiry into the tie-up was ordered by Joseph Burke, United States district attorney at Los Angeles, following communications with Attorney General Daugherty.

At the same time Governor Thomas E. Campbell, of Arizona, ordered an investigation of conditions among marooned passengers at Seligman following reports of suffering.

The walkout of "Big Four" transportation brotherhood men, who based their action on the presence of soldiers and armed guards at former trouble centers, and upon alleged defective railroad equipment, spread rapidly over the Southern Pacific system. Crews left their trains at Sacramento and Roseville, California, and other points on the Southern Pacific, added new embargoes on perishable freight, including livestock on the Ogden and Portland routes.

Suffering Intense Suffering among marooned passengers, especially women, children and the aged and infirm, was growing intense, according to reports from some of the stranded trains.

Relief for halted passengers on the Union Pacific between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles was given by brotherhood men, who made six trains marooned at desert points to places of less discomfort.

Western Pacific crews working between Elko, Nevada, and Gerlach, agreed to return to work but brotherhood men at Stockton, Oakland, and Oroville, California, remained out.

Several trains which started on their scheduled points when it was evident they would only add to the tie-up.

U. S. Marshals Used

Deputy United States Marshals and wrecking crews were sent to Ash Grove, 15 miles from Springfield, Missouri, where the 400 foot "Fisco" bridge over the Sac river was dynamited.

Detectives were endeavoring to run down clues to the identity of bombers who attacked the Wehaken local on the West Shore railroad at Granton Junction, New Jersey. Passengers, most of them returning excursionists, were thrown into a panic when the bombs were hurled at the train as it crossed a culvert in an isolated cut. Steel cars, which withstood the shock minimized the damage but many windows were broken and ten persons were injured.

Mystery surrounded the origin of the shop fire at Wichita Falls, Texas. The flames were discovered by a watchman and spread rapidly.

IS THIS YOU?
What's "this average American" like? Politicians talk about him. Newspapers write about him. Psychologists hold him up as a sort of phantom in their shadow-boxing.
The average American man is 5 feet 7 1/2 inches tall.
He weighs 141 1/2 pounds.
This is announced by Maj. General Merritt W. Ireland, surgeon general of the army, after studying the records of 1,000,000 men who were examined for service in the last war.
How close are you to the average?

The shortest American men are in Rhode Island. The tallest are in Texas and the mountains of North Carolina.
Even at that, they average only about an inch above or below "the average American."
South Dakota men averaged heavier than any other state's. Rhode Island men were the lightest. The two groups varied only five pounds above and below normal.
Out of each 100 city men examined for the army, 61 physical defects were found. The figure was only 53 for the farm boys. This confirms what you already know—that health is in the country, close to the soil.
A fifth of the Class One men were found physically unfit for military service in the field or for home duty. This is a very serious handicap for the next generation, as yet unborn—for, while few physical defects are inherited, the weakness or tendency toward a physical defect is definitely known to be liable to be passed on from father to son.
Kansas averaged highest of all states for physical specimens—Rhode Island was at the foot of the list.

Three out of each 200 men examined were rejected for mental defects—inadequacies or abnormalities. On this basis, at least 1,500,000 Americans have hopelessly inferior brains, some of them of the vegetable type.
Millions of bits of valuable information, each leading to an important and helpful deduction, can be drawn from Ireland's analysis of "the average American."

Of all these, the most important are:
ONE: The need of greater health education and exercise.
TWO: The need of more intensified education for those whose brains are below normal.
THREE: The urgent wisdom of cautiously considering the physical and mental health of an intended mate, before marriage.

THE RADIO SCHOOL
Bismarck is to have a Radio School.
Sounds very modern, for it was only a few years ago that radio was nothing but a mystery to the public. Now the youth, and a good portion of the adult population of the United States, are not only interested in casually reading about the subject but are experimenting in it.
John Hays Hammond controls torpedoes and submarines by radio. Typewriters may be operated by radio from an aeroplane. Handwriting is transferred across the Atlantic by radio. Radio telephones are becoming everyday conveniences.
The Radio School at St. Mary's auditorium will be conducted by Fr. Hillory, professor of physics, St. John's University, Collegeville, Minn., and under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.
Classes in which the building of radio sets will be taken up will be organized. Opportunity is now beckoning to the people of Bismarck.

Before the classes in radio are concluded everybody in the city may learn how to construct a set, and many other things about radio which are now a mystery, for the general principles of the subject are very simple.
No better opportunity could be desired by those who wish to acquire a grasp of the subject without too much effort on their own part—that is offered in this school.

LIQUOR POLL
Everyone is talking about the Literary Digest's straw vote on prohibition. Many are surprised at the great number who confess their thirst.
The most important thing shown by the poll is that public sentiment is sufficiently divided on the liquor question probably to deadlock the politicians. Americans do not always get what they want. They wouldn't vote for high taxes. But they have them.
Germany also has a straw vote on prohibition—its first. This is in the town of Bielefeld.
The vote is 30 to 1 against liquor.

No editorial comment on this could be as powerful as the bare facts.
BRYAN
William Jennings Bryan gets a real haircut, his first "short trim" in years. The barber had an easy job on top. At sides and back, Bryan still is able to grow locks like a prophet of old, though he is past 62.
Those locks have been appropriate. At various times in his career, Bryan was a better prophet than most people realized at the time. He was clairvoyant with the future, but not always.

MAGIC
A sailor becomes ill aboard a British ship far out at sea. No doctor is aboard. The captain goes to the wireless room and sends out a description of the sailor's symptoms.
A French ship picks up the message. No one aboard can read English. So the message is relayed to an English ship where a doctor prescribes. His medical directions are relayed back the same way to the sick man.
If this had happened 800 years ago, all parties concerned would have been beheaded or burned alive as agents of the evil one.

RESPONSIBILITY
Nester Evans Wicklow sues the Erie Railroad for $50,000 damages. He claims he was injured by slipping on a banana peel while stepping off a train.
Back of this is a principle that property owners might save themselves money by keeping things in their own hands. The owner of a property has a definite responsibility, varying in different communities, for the condition of the public sidewalk. In front of his place, pedestrians who have slipped on an icy sidewalk have collected damages from the owner. It may not be a fair law, but a statute is an established fact, not a theory in ethics. Play safe—keep sidewalks fool-proof.

YOUTH
Paris celebrates the 100th anniversary of the deciphering of the Rosetta Stone by Jean Champollion. This famous stone was discovered in Egypt in 1799 by a French officer. A message was carved on it in three different languages.
Champollion, by deciphering the Rosetta Stone, gave science the key to the mysterious hieroglyphic writings of the ancient Egyptians. As a result, we have placed together their history.
Young men who are timid about taking big jobs should think of Champollion. He was only 11 when he began studying the puzzle. He was only 19 when he solved the mystery. Wise old men had failed.

THE NEW BRIDGE
Last Sunday saw the first general use of the new vehicular bridge across the Missouri river between Bismarck and Mandan. The new bridge is a mammoth undertaking, and is something that will be of untold value to this part of the world. Thousands upon thousands of automobiles pass back and forth every year at Bismarck and Mandan, and heretofore all of them have been ferried across the river. Now, traffic will not be halted in the least. Instead, a fine up-to-date bridge, with paved approaches will greet the traveler. Not only that, but the new bridge will be a great thing for Bismarck and Mandan. They will in truth become the Twin Cities of North Dakota. These towns will be able to support many civic and business enterprises that have been just out of reach of either one heretofore.
For the man with the automobile, Mandan and Bismarck will be really just one city with the new bridge across the Missouri open to traffic.
Bismarck and Mandan are planning on staging a big celebration in connection with the formal opening of the bridge, the dates being September 19th and 20th. People in this vicinity should note that the original dates were changed from the 18th and 14th so that they would not conflict with celebrations which had been set for Linton and other Slope towns.—Linton Record.

CHICKENS AND COWS
H. L. Junod, a young farmer living near LaMoure, presents one of the convincing arguments and the most convincing proof of the benefits of diversified farming that has ever come to our notice.
During the last several months, he says, his wife has paid all of the family grocery bills and supplied herself and the children with "pin money" from the proceeds of their modest henery.
Mr. Junod's farm is situated in the James River valley, embraces 360 acres, and the soil is as fertile as any to be found in the state. "My crop this year," said Mr. Junod, "is the best, on the whole, I ever raised. Yet this crop will bring me little or no profit. I have eight cows, and their combined earnings, from the standpoint of net profit, will be far greater than that produced from the wheat, rye, barley, oats and other fall grain."
High cost of producing, or poor prices, or both together, furnish the answer. Oats selling at 19 cents per bushel and costing 12 cents to three cents cannot return a very large profit, no matter how great the yield. And the same is relatively true of wheat, rye and other grains.
And so it all comes back to the proposition for which this paper has so long contended: the only safe kind of farming in this country is that which puts the accent on cows, poultry, cattle and hogs, and indulges in wheat and other grain raising merely as a side line.—LaMoure Chronicle.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts
At last the Twins found Flap-Doodle on the Tinky-Winkle Star. When they knocked at the front door, a voice said, "Come in," and there sat the purple fairy who had stolen the Fairy Queen's wand.
"Hello there!" he said in a friendly enough voice.
"Hello!" answered Nick.
"What do you want?" asked Flap-Doodle.
Nancy had spied the stick in Flap-Doodle's hand.
"We want that," she said, pointing toward it. "It's the Fairy Queen's wand."
"Well see about that," grinned Flap-Doodle, wagging his head. And before anyone could stop him he waved his hand and said these magic words:
"Let's pick, little stick!
Do my will, and do it quick!
Instantly Nancy was changed into a baby-doll and Nick into a wooden soldier.
They were so surprised they couldn't move. But then they saw the trouble; they couldn't move any way now that they were toys, even with their little Green Shoes, which stood bravely on in spite of Nancy's bisque legs, and Nick's elegant regimentals.
"Ha, ha, ha!" roared Flap-Doodle at his own joke. "That's fine! And much easier than having to change myself into a dozen different things every five minutes."
That's a good idea. I'll just go all over the Tinky-Winkle Star and change all the Tinky-Winklers into things that can't move."
So out he flew, saying his charm and waving his wand.
One Tinky-Winkler was changed into a wooden Indian, one into a scare crow, another into a picture of himself, and another into a soap-baby.
How long there wasn't a Tinky-Winkler left.

A THOUGHT
He stayeth his rough wind in the day of the east wind.—Isaiah 27:8.
We never have more than we can bear. The present hour we are always able to endure.—H. E. Manning.

TODAY'S WORD
Today's word is—CAMBRIAN.
It's pronounced—kam-brian, with accent on the first syllable.
It means—Welsh; something pertaining to Cambria, or Wales. It is used also to describe a certain division of one of the geological eras.
It comes from—Cambria, the Latin version of Cymru, the native name of Wales.
It's used like this—"In recent international discussions in Europe the Cambrian statecraft of Mr. Lloyd George has proved too much for the Gallic impetuosity of M. Poincaré." Or: "The Cambrian division of geological time is so called because it was differentiated, or set apart, originally in Wales."

By NEA Service.
Freeport, Ill., Aug. 14.—Some 60,000 visitors are expected to come luxuriously autotring and train-traveling into Freeport August 27.
The occasion is the celebration of the fact that, 84 years ago, some 20,000 visitors came riding here in carriages, wagons, carriages, and many foot, expecting to see the popular orator, Stephen A. Douglas, the "Little Giant," longingly crush in debate a long, ugly backwoodsman by the name of Abraham Lincoln.
This debate, held August 27, 1858, eventually put Lincoln in the White House and changed the destiny of a nation.
The celebration this year will last all day, with parades, fireworks, community singing and other similar features. But it is expected to have a deeper significance, also. For the committee in charge has arranged for speeches by a Democrat, Byron Patton Harrison of Mississippi, and by a Republican, Earl C. Schuyler of Denver, Col., former speaker of the Colorado House of Representatives, on the subject, "Application of the principles of the Lincoln-Douglas debate to problems today."—Slogans which will be used in the political battle for control of Congress next fall will be sounded by the orators, it is predicted.

The prize for which Lincoln and Douglas debated in Freeport was essentially a United States senatorship. But Lincoln looked further ahead into the future, when the presidency would be the prize. Already there was talk of armed conflict between the north and south, and slavery had become a paramount issue. Lincoln interpreted these things more clearly than did his famous opponent.
In Lincoln's brain, and also (if history is true) on a paper stuffed in the crown of his battered stovepipe hat, was a question. His advisers warned him that to ask it meant defeat—perhaps political annihilation. But the gawky country lawyer did not waver.
"Can the people of a United States territory, in a lawful way, against the wish of any citizen of the United States, exclude slavery from its limits prior to the formation of a state constitution?" he asked in a tone which carried to the outermost limits of the throng from the platform where he stood.
Douglas' reply that it could, because "slavery cannot exist unless supported by local police regulations," won Douglas the senatorship—and lost him the presidency two years later.

Split Democrats.
The question presented a wedge which split the Democratic party in two, and put Lincoln into the White House in the resultant bitter three-cornered fight.
The site of the debate is marked by a huge boulevard, dedicated by Theodore Roosevelt in 1903. On it is a plate with the following inscription: Within this block was held the second joint debate in the senatorial contest between ABRAHAM LINCOLN and Stephen A. Douglas August 27, 1858.
"I am not for the dissolution of the Union under any circumstance,"—Douglas.
"This government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free,"—Lincoln.
Dedicated by President Roosevelt in 1903.

SECTION NEAR BOWDEN
Bowden, N. D., Aug. 14.—Bert Sargent sold a section of his land to Al. Haskbrook and his brother-in-law, who resides in South Dakota, last week. The land in the deal is the half section known as the Hopkins place which has good buildings on it and a half section without buildings located just south of Geo. Fuhrman's. The price paid for the section was $50 per acre, which totals $32,000. As will be seen by this price there are no inflated land values in this section of the country as the land is good and with proper farming methods will pay big interest on the investments.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Who has shot and killed the near-dead well?
ROBERT ABLETT, within two minutes after his arrival at The Red House, the country estate of his wealthy bachelor brother, MARK ABLETT? Robert's body was on the floor of the locked office, Mark had disappeared and in the eyes of Police Inspector Birch, it was clear that Mark, who had viewed Robert's return from Australia with annoyance, had shot his brother and then disappeared.
But there were mysterious circumstances. The shot was heard just a few moments before ANTHONY GILLINGHAM, gentleman adventurer and friend of BILL BEVERLEY, one of Mark's friends, entered the hall where he found MATT CAYLEY, Mark's constant companion, pounding on the locked door and demanding admittance. The two men entered the office through a window and discovered the body.
Mysterious circumstances puzzle Anthony. He and Bill investigate and Anthony discovers that a secret passage leads from the house to a bowling green. Anthony discovers Cayley using this to overhear a conversation between him and Bill.
GO ON WITH THE STORY
Anthony wanted to shout his applause. It was neat, devilish neat. For a moment he gazed, fascinated, at that wonderful new kind of croquet-ball which had appeared so dramatically out of the box, and then reluctantly wiggled himself back. There was nothing to be gained by staying there, and a good deal to be lost, for Bill showed signs of running down. As quickly as he could Anthony hurried round the ditch and took up his place at the back of the seat. Then he stood up with a yawn, stretched himself and said carelessly, "Well, don't worry yourself about it, Bill. I'll man it sure say you're right. You know Mark, and I don't; and that's the difference. Shall we have a game or shall we go to bed?"
Bill looked at him for inspiration, and, receiving it, said, "Oh, just let's have one game, shall we?"
"Right you are," said Anthony.
But Bill was much too excited to take the game which followed very seriously. Anthony, on the other hand, seemed to be thinking of nothing but bowls. He played with great deliberation for ten minutes, and then announced he was going to bed. Bill looked at him anxiously.
"It's all right," laughed Anthony. "You can talk if you want to. Just let 'em away first, though."
They made their way to the shed, and while Bill was putting the bowls away, Anthony tried the lid of the closed croquet-box. As he expected, it was locked.
"Now then," said Bill, as they were walking back to the house again, "I'm simply bursting to know. Who was it?"
"Cayley,"
"Good Lord! Where?"
"Inside one of the croquet-boxes."
"Don't be an ass."
"It's quite true, Bill. He told me the other what he had seen."

"But aren't you going to have a look at it?" asked Bill in great disappointment. "I'm longing to explore. Aren't you?"
"Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow. We shall see Cayley coming along this way directly. Besides, I want to get in from the other end, if I can. I doubt very much if we can do it this end without giving ourselves away. Look, there's Cayley."
They could see him coming along the drive toward them. When they were a little closer, they waved to him and he waved back.
"I wondered where you were," he said, as he got up to them. "I rather thought you might be along this way. What about bed?"
"Bed it is," said Anthony.
Bill left the rest of the conversation as they wandered back to the house, to Anthony. He wanted to think. There seemed to be no doubt now that Cayley was a villain. Bill had never been familiar with a villain before. It didn't seem quite fair of Cayley, somehow; he was taking rather a mean advantage of his friends. Lot of funny people there were in the world—funny people with secrets. Look at Tony, that first time he had met him in a tobaccoconist's shop.
But what on earth had Miss Norris got to do with it?
Miss Norris, who had proposed to catch an after-dinner train at the junction, in the obvious hope that she might have in this way a dramatic cross-examination at the hands of some keen-eyed detective, was encouraged tactfully, but quite firmly, to travel by the earlier train with the others.
Why?
Well, that question was not to be answered off-hand. But the fact that it was so had made Anthony interested in her. By sheer luck, as it seemed to him, he had stumbled on the answer to his question.
Miss Norris was hurried away because she knew about the secret passage.
The passage, then, had something to do with the mystery of Robert's death. Miss Norris had used it in order to bring off her dramatic appearance as the ghost. Possibly she had discovered it for herself; possibly Mark had revealed it to her secretly one day, never guessing that she would make so unkind use of it later on; possibly Cayley, having been let into the joke of the dressing-up, had shown her how she could make her appearance on the bowling-green even more mysterious and supernatural. One way or another, she knew about the secret passage. So she must be hurried away.
Why? Because if she stayed and talked, she might make some innocent mention of it. And Cayley did not want any mention of it.
Why, again? Obviously because the passage, or even the mere knowledge of its existence, might provide a clue.
"I wonder if Mark's hiding went to," thought Anthony; and he went to.

CHAPTER X
Anthony came down in a very good humor to breakfast next morning, and found that his host was before him. Cayley looked up from his letters and nodded.
"Any word of Mr. Ablett—of Mark?" said Anthony, as he poured out his coffee.
"No. The inspector wants to drag the lake this afternoon."
"Oh! Is there a lake?"
There was just the flicker of a smile on Cayley's face, but it disappeared as quickly as it came.
"Well, it's really a pond," he said, "but it was called the lake."
"By Mark," thought Anthony. Aloud he said, "What do they expect to find?"
"They think that Mark—" He broke off and shrugged his shoulders.
"May have drowned himself, knowing that he couldn't get away?"
And knowing that he had compromised himself by trying to get away at all?
"Yes; I suppose so," said Cayley slowly.
He added dryly, "From what I've read of detective stories, inspectors always do want to drag the pond first."
"Is it deep?"
"Quite deep enough," said Cayley as he got up. On his way to the door he stopped, and looked at Anthony. "I'm so sorry that we're keeping you here like this, but it will only be until tomorrow. The inquest is tomorrow afternoon. Do amuse yourself how you like till then."
"Thanks very much. I shall really be quite all right."
Anthony went in with his breakfast. Perhaps it was true that inspectors liked dragging ponds, but the question was: Did Cayley like having them dragged? Was Cayley anxious about it, or quite indifferent? He certainly did not seem to be anxious, but he could hide his feelings very easily beneath that heavy, stolid face.
Bill came in noisily.
Bill's face was an open book. Excitement was written all over it. "Well," he said eagerly, as he sat down to the business of the meal, "what are we going to do this morning?"
"Not talk so loudly for one thing," said Anthony.
Bill looked about him apprehensively. Was Cayley under the table, for example? After last night one never knew.
"Is—er—" He raised his eyebrows.
"No. But he doesn't want to shout. One should modulate the voice, my dear William, while breathing gently from the hips. Thus one avoids those chest-notes which have betrayed many a secret. In other words, pass the toast."
"You seem bright this morning."
"I am. Very bright. Cayley noticed it. Cayley said, 'Were it not that I have other business, I would come gathering nuts and my with this Fairy would I gyrate round the mulberry bush and hop upon the little hills.'"
"It's a touch of the sun, I suppose," said Bill, shaking his head sadly.
"It's the sun and the moon and the stars, all acting together on an empty stomach. Do you know anything about the stars, Mr. Beverley? Do you know anything about Orion's Belt, for instance? And why isn't there a star called Beverley's Belt? Said he, masticating, re-eater W. Beverley tyrothru trap-door."
"Talking about trap-doors—" "Don't," said Anthony, getting up. "Some talk of Alexander and some of Hercules, but nobody talks about—what the Latin for trap-door? Mensa—a table; you might get it from that. Well, Mr. Beverley—" and he slapped him heartily on the back as he went past him—"I shall see you later. Cayley says that you will amuse me, but so far you have not made me laugh once. You must try and be more amusing when you have finished your breakfast. But don't hurry. Let the upper molar-bles have time to do the work." With these words Mr. Gillingham then left the spacious apartment. Bill continued his breakfast with a slightly bewildered air. He did not know that Cayley was smoking a cigarette outside the window behind him; not listening, perhaps; possibly not even overhearing; but within sight of Anthony, who was not going to take any risks. So he went on with his breakfast, reflecting that Anthony was a rum fellow, and won't go if he had dreamed only of amazing things which had happened the day before.
Anthony went up to his bedroom to fetch his pipe. It was occupied by a housemaid, and he made a polite apology for disturbing her. Then he remembered.
"Is it Blaise?" he asked, giving her a friendly smile.
"Yes, sir," she said, shy but proud. She had no doubts as to why it was that she had achieved such notoriety.

Advisory Board

It is the sincere aim of this newspaper to conduct this campaign from start to finish in a fair, honorable and impartial manner. Every precaution has been taken to safeguard the interests of participants, and absolute honesty in all dealings is guaranteed.

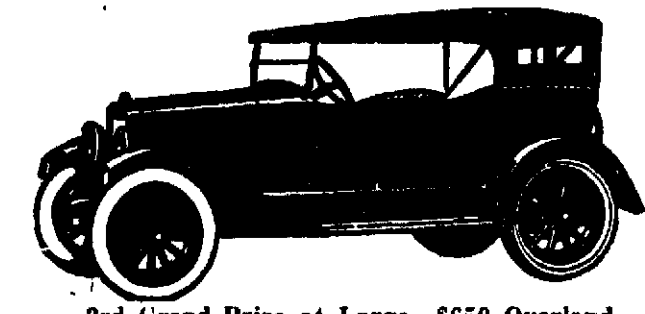

However, not all wisdom lies within one man or institution, and for that reason an Advisory Board has been decided upon, whose functions shall be to decide any questions of sufficient moment that might happen to arise during the competition and from which a committee shall be selected to act as judges and count the credits the last night of the campaign. The personnel of this board will be announced in a later issue of this paper and shall be men that are recognized as leaders of the community and in whom all the candidates will have confidence to place the campaign checking of votes and counting of the results of ballot in their hands.

Extra Votes Given in Large Numbers

The Bismarck Tribune's $10,000 Automobile and Prize Campaign will be divided into three distinct periods, and candidates are urged to start at once, for those starting early will have the best chance to succeed, according to the following plan:

1. From the beginning of the Campaign and holding good until Saturday, August 26, inclusive, 200,000 extra votes will be allowed for every $30 worth of subscription payments.
2. Beginning Monday, August 28, and holding good until Saturday, September 9, inclusive, 175,000 extra votes will be allowed for every $30 worth of NEW subscription payments.
3. Beginning Monday, September 11, and holding good until Saturday, September 16, the closing date of the campaign, 150,000 extra votes will be allowed for every $30 worth of subscription payments.

NOTE—These extra votes are in addition to the scheduled number issued on each subscription payment and positively no other special vote offers of any kind will be made during the entire campaign. There is no limit to the number of $30 subscription clubs a candidate may turn in during the three periods above mentioned.

NO LUCK ABOUT IT—

The Tribune agrees to pay all club members who participate in this campaign a cash commission of 10 per cent ($1 out of every $10 collected) on all money turned in, provided they make two or more cash reports each week after they start to work, and in the event such club members do not win one of the prizes. Club members who enter this campaign have a definite aim—they are guaranteed liberal pay for every effort put forth if they remain active during the short time the campaign is in progress. This 10 per cent cash commission feature is a liberal business proposition in itself.

MISPLAYS PUT FARGO AHEAD IN TWIN BILL

Brindza Pitches Fine Game for Bismarck in First but Support Fails Him

WAHP-BRECK COMING

The Fargo team, fighting for the leadership in the Dakota league, gave its percentage a boost Sunday by defeating the local team in two games, 1 to 2 and 14 to 4, after having been defeated Saturday evening by a score of 12 to 11.

Brindza and "Lefty" Hagar hooked up in a hurling duel in the first game Sunday. The crowd pulled hard for Brindza and he pitched a fine game, deserving to win, but wobbly support cost a victory. Brindza kept going strong during the later innings although he had had tough luck. He struck out the last four men that faced him. He was sent back for the second game, Manager Louis Bachant being short of fingers. Two bad misplays in the first inning put Bismarck in the hole again. In the eighth inning, McClure, shortstop, was sent in to pitch. He got through this frame but in the ninth the Fargo batters fattened their batting averages and ran up the score.

Fargo was "spotted" to one run in the first, a bad habit the local team has developed with visitors. Lee singled. Shaffer singled. Aaron went out to third. Shaffer was caught off first by Brindza. The ball was whipped to catcher and Lee was trapped off third. In the attempted run down Bachant dropped Gilbert's toss and Lee scored.

The locals came near tying the score in the first game in the seventh inning and had a glorious chance to put the game on ice. With two down, Bachant doubled to left. Brindza helped his own game by hitting Bachant on a single. Lane hit safely and McClure walked, filling the bags. Gilbert flew out.

Hart, Bismarck right-fielder, played with a bad ankle which he sprained in Saturday's game. He was beaten out of two hits because he could not run with any speed. Shaffer, Fargo shortstop, contributed some fielding features in the second game.

The local team plays Wahpeton this evening and Tuesday evening at 6 p. m., the last home game.

Walter Gilbert, Bismarck third baseman, has been sold to the Minneapolis American Association team, to join the Millers next year.

CERTAIN PITCHERS AND THEIR JINX-HE'S VINDICTIVE, TOO, THE WAY HE ACTS

SHOCKER

MORTON

BY BILLY EVANS.

It really is remarkable the jinx that pitchers often exert over certain clubs.

Ever since the Yankees traded Urban Shocker to St. Louis, the great spitball pitcher has been a thorn in the side of the New York team.

His chief delight is beating the Yankees. He has turned the trick many a time since out of town. As a matter of fact, it has not been unusual for him to work twice in a four-game series against the Yankees. Victory, as a rule, has crowned his efforts.

Of late the Yankees have been having a bit more success against Shocker, due to the break of the game, in a recent series at St. Louis, and rather than to inferior pitching.

In a recent series at St. Louis, and in the last series at New York, Shocker twice opposed the Yanks in each series and suffered four defeats.

Four games is more than he usually loses to the New York club during the entire season.

Guy Morton of the Cleveland club is equally effective against the Boston Red Sox. Ever since Morton joined the American League, the Red Sox have been soft picking, even when the club was a strong pennant contender.

NEFF

Ray Korp of the St. Louis club has been almost as successful against Cleveland during the short time he has been in the American League.

But Neff, the crack southpaw of the New York Giants, has always found the Pittsburgh team to his liking. The Pirates haven't beaten him since August 31, 1920. During that time Neff has opposed the Pittsburgh club twelve times and scored a victory each time.

Eleven straight wins over a ball club like Pittsburgh constitutes something of a pitching record. In those eleven games the Pirates were able to make only 15 runs, an average of less than a run and a half per game.

Prior to the trade that brought him to New York, Neff was a member of the Boston Braves. Even with that club he exerted a strong influence over the Pittsburgh team, winning 12 and losing 7.

However, when he joined the Giants he began to wield an even more potent influence. As a member of the New York club he has won 17 and lost only two games to Pittsburgh.

BARNES WINS IN FIRST START WITH GIANTS

Helps McGrawites to Lengthen Lead Over Cardinals. Hornsby Boosts Record

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Virgil Barnes, hurler, made his first start as a Giant regular in the box against the Braves yesterday defeating them 4 to 2 and helped his fellow McGrawites to lengthen their lead over the Cardinals, whose seven errors contributed largely to their defeat by the Cubs 16 to 5.

Hornsby's 20th home run of the season accounted for one of the St. Louis scores.

In the American league both St. Louis and New York met defeat and their battle for the lead showed no change.

The Yankees with Jones having one bad inning, lost to Washington 3 to 2, while the White Sox pounded three of the Brown hurlers to win 9 to 3.

Brooklyn through eighth and ninth inning rallies that netted three runs were enabled to turn back the Phillies 3 to 2. Met took Cincinnati ten innings to defeat Pittsburgh 5 to 4 and break the Pirate winning streak which had reached 13 games.

In the other American league game, Speaker's men won from the Cobb clan 3 to 2.

STRIKE STARTS SELLING UPON STOCK MARKET

German Reparations Question Imparts Reactionary Trend Also

(By the Associated Press)
New York, Aug. 14.—Further complications in the railroad strike situation combined with the failure of the allied premiers to come to an agreement on the German reparations question imparted a decidedly reactionary trend to opening prices on the New York stock exchange today. The heavy selling pressure was directed chiefly against the rails and oils. Northern Pacific dropped a point, Toledo, St. Louis and Western was down 1/2 and losses of large fractions were recorded in St. Paul, Rock Island, New York Central and Great Northern preferred. Mexican Petroleum sold off a point and then dropped 3/4 below Saturday's close. Losses of a point were registered by United States Steel, Standard Oil and People's Gas. Pronounced heaviness also was noted in International Harvester, General Asphalt and some of the equipment shares. The outstanding exceptions to the downward trend were Coca-Cola and American Zinc, preferred each which gained a point.

The early selling movement was extended to motors, steels, merchandising and a number of miscellaneous shares, which reacted 1/2 to 3 points. Substantial "A," Pan American "B," Chandler, Crucible, Pullman and Pittsburgh Steel were particularly heavy. Towards noon however, strong buying support set in, the market reacted 1/2 to 3 points. The leadership of chemical, farm implement, and food and mail order shares. During the rally new highs for the year were made by Allied Chemical International Harvester, Advance Realty, American Zinc, Coca-Cola, General Asphalt, National Cloak and Suit, Famous Players and J. I. Case preferred. Gains of 2 1/2 to 5 1/4 points were scored by American Agricultural Chemical preferred, Kresge, National Cloak and Suit, Pierce Arrow preferred, Fisher Body and American Tank. Call money opened at 4 per cent.

Selling orders predominated in the final hour when the lowest prices of the day were registered by steels, equipments, railroads and foreign oils most of which were down 1 to 3 points. The closing was heavy.

Prices in today's stock market moved with an irregular trend. Special stocks influenced by favorable trade news and pool operations, scored large gains but the usual leaders, especially the rails, and action on the less favorable domestic and foreign developments. Sales amounted 575,000 shares.

The prevailing uncertainty regarding the outcome of pending foreign and domestic economic problems restricted buying of stocks which ordinarily dominate the course of the general market. Railroads reflected intermittent pressure in the afternoon but a long list of minor industrials and specialties were bought with confidence. Pierce Arrow preferred jumped 9 1/2 points, and the common stock 5 1/4. Overland, Stromberg and Willy Overland preferred also moved up smartly. Domestic oils, leathers and the American cotton oils and American lined issues climbed steadily. Free offerings of call money carried the rate down to 3 per cent.

DULUTH GRAIN

(By the Associated Press)
Duluth, Minn., Aug. 14.—New low prices for grain were set in the wheat market today as a result of hedging pressure and weakness at Liverpool. Calves were off largely owing to failure of the reparations conference at London to reach an agreement. Unfavorable developments in the railroad situation contributed to bearish sentiment as operators hesitated to make commitments and it later might be found impossible to carry through on account of congestion.

Rye was again active with large receipts and the promise of a good movement from now on according to transportation conditions.

The market was weak at the close. September wheat closed 8c, October 7 1/2c, November 7 1/4c, December 7 1/4c. Corn 5 1/2c, October 5 1/4c, November 5 1/4c, December 5 1/4c. Flax 2 1/2c, October 2 1/4c, November 2 1/4c, December 2 1/4c.

IRRIGATION IS TOPIC BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

Plans to Utilize Missouri in Local Project Explained to Bismarck Rotarians

At the Rotary Club luncheon which was held at the McKenzie hotel today noon talks were given by George E. Baker, consulting engineer, of Whitehall, Mont.; George H. McMahon, assistant state engineer, Prof. Elwin F. Chandler, dean of the civil engineering department at the University of North Dakota, and George R. Russ, Walter Sather and Mayor Henry representative for the American Legion.

In speaking on the Bismarck Irrigation Project, Mr. Baker said that he had found in his trip through the Loop country of the Missouri river that the farmers were much interested in irrigation and thought that by the applying of a sufficient amount of water at the proper time to growing crops the yield of farm products could be greatly increased.

"I am not going to say that dry farming in western North Dakota does not pay, even though the average rancher in Montana is now willing to admit that he has been chasing the wrong rabbit, but I do say that it is not wise for the small farmer to put all his eggs in one basket."

"I have observed that practically every farmer who has not been doing some irrigation along with his dry farming, has failed utterly, and, in most cases, has abandoned his building and other improvements, and even his farm," declared Mr. Baker.

Mr. Baker declared that most of the development in the west had been a result of small projects—small projects in grain farming, stock raising, mining, and, in a great measure, in irrigation. Montana's prosperity has been in proportion to her irrigation, said the speaker.

He pointed out that climatic and soil conditions in North Dakota were very similar to those in Montana.

not insisting on arbitration for the future.

INCREASED LOADING
Washington, Aug. 14.—Increased loading of coal cars was reported today to the central coal distribution committee.

Loadings on Friday totaled 13,258 cars, an increase of 753 over the previous Friday. Loadings for the first five days of last week numbered 69,000 which was 5,650 more than the loadings for the corresponding days of the previous week.

Expedition of the coal shipments to the Great Lakes sections with the aim of increasing the flow of fuel to that region to 1,000,000 tons a week by September 1, was undertaken by the committee. The lake section, officials said, required 1,000,000 tons of coal before the close of navigation, about the middle of December. About 140,000 tons were moved to the lakes last week and officials hope to move 250,000 tons this week, 400,000 tons next week and to have the million tons a week program in operation by the first of the month.

The association the statement declares will continue to operate under the "open shop" policy.

GET INCREASE
Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 14.—All employees of the Lake Carriers' association below the grade of licensed officers have been granted wage increases of $15 per month effective September 1, it was announced in a statement issued by George Marr, secretary of the association today.

RYE MAKING ABOUT 18 BU.
Dickinson, N. D., Aug. 14.—The harvest of Stark county's 1922 crop, which is probably one of the best crops in the history of agricultural activities in western North Dakota, is now on in full sway.

Rye harvest has practically been completed throughout the county and the farmers are now into the wheat fields cutting and binding. The harvest of wheat will occupy most of this month and threshing will not be very far advanced until the latter part of this month or the first of next month.

There has been some threshing of rye a very little however in the county. John J. Loh, county commissioner for the first district, was one of the first in the county to

SENATE BEGINS LAST WEEK OF TARIFF DEBATE

Washington, Aug. 14.—The senate entered today upon its last week of wrestling with the administration tariff, an agreement of amendments still undisposed of, senators looked forward to a busy six days with several night sessions in prospect.

After senate action, the bill will be sent to conference where representatives of the house and senate will undertake to "iron" an agreement on the more than two thousand senate amendments.

BODY OF GRIFFITH TO LAY IN STATE
Dublin, Aug. 14.—The body of Arthur Griffith, president of the Irish Free state cabinet, lay in state today in Dublin city hall. Thousands of mourners streamed by the bier, around which was stationed a guard of honor chosen from the troops of the national army.

The body will lie in state until tomorrow night, when it will be removed to the pro-cathedral. Archbishop Byrne will preside at a solemn requiem mass at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. The funeral and burial immediately following.

In the Protestant churches yesterday, remarkable tributes were paid to Mr. Griffith, the trend of which was that the Free State had lost in him a pillar of strength.

DEATH A CALAMITY
Dublin, Aug. 14.—Michael Collins, interviewed today at the field headquarters of the national army, said that the death of Griffith was a calamity for Ireland, and said it was not late for Eamon De Valera and his followers to honor the passing of a great patriot by accepting the terms of the Free State government, offered to achieve the unity of Ireland.

The commander in chief added that he would continue his military work until the trouble was ended.

ATTACK SUCCESSFUL
Bellevue, Aug. 14.—A large force of Republicans entered Dundalk at 3 o'clock this morning taking the national garrison completely by surprise. The attack was successful and the town is now isolated with Republican troops patrolling the streets.

The army street police headquarters, which was occupied by the nationalists, was the first object to be stormed and taken. The garrison was captured.

The jail was the next to fall and all prisoners who were mostly Republicans were liberated. These were supplied with arms and joined the rescuers in the attack on the town, in which bombs were freely used. The railway station and general post-office were taken in succession.

Many of the inhabitants, especially Free State sympathizers, fled.

AT THE MOVIES
AT THE CAPITOL
"The Referee," which comes to the Capitol for a run of two days, offers Conway Tappin the type of role his admirers have long wished he would play. There is perhaps no screen star of the day more fitted to play the part of a fighting referee forced by circumstances into the most trying situation of his thrilling life.

John McCardle has a conscience cultivated and strengthened from his youth up by the teaching of his mother. At twenty-four he is the recognized middle-weight champion of the world. But a motor-car accident injures his arm so badly that he is forced to abandon his career when it is at its crest. So John McCardle enters the business world.

But the lure of the prize-ring is too strong for McCardle to deny, and he becomes a referee. Thus matters stand when the present middle-weight champion is scheduled to fight another tough customer. Rudy Metzker, promoter of the fight plans to make the battle a dishonest one for the good of his own purse.

The fight is on! The arena is jammed with fight fans crazy for action, crying for "first blood!" The song clangs! Action! The fighters stop gracefully about the ring, their muscles moving like slick ribbons under their skin, their eyes narrowed and eager for the first advantage. There is a blow under the belt. Someone cries, "Foul!" The crowd shrieks. The referee steps forward, "Honest John" McCardle! Then the real, mightiest fight of all begins!

THE ELTINGE
"The Dust Flower," the feature at the Eltinge for Tuesday and Wednesday was made from Basil King's novel by the same name. Helene Chadwick is cast as Letty, a young girl abused by her step-father who would force her to work in all night cafe and turn her earnings over to him. Rather than face the insults she knew awaited her, Letty is on the point of jumping into the river when she is rescued by Rashley Alington, a wealthy young man, just jilted by his fiancée. From this time on dramatic situations carry the story to a pleasing close. Comedy and News pictures will also be shown.

WHEAT TESTED 63 POUNDS
Carson, N. D., Aug. 14.—Jake Mitchell called at the Press office Tuesday evening and stated that he brought in a sample of wheat that had threshed out in his header box. The wheat was tested at the Carson Roller Mills and was No. 1 and tested 63 pounds to the bushel.

NOMINATE YOURSELF THIS WEEK. CAMPAIGN TO BE SHORT & SNAPPY NAMES TO BE PUBLISHED MONDAY

No Time to Lose if You Are After One of the Five Motor Cars and Other Awards to Be Won in $10,000 Campaign.—Spare Time Can Be Turned Into Great Amount of Profit.—All Aboard for Honor and Reward

"While changing trains at the new Union Station in St. Paul the other day, en route to launch the Tribune's subscription drive," said the campaign manager, "my attention was attracted to a young man who was about to depart. He was surrounded by quite a gathering of friends and they were wishing him God-speed on his journey and all that sort of thing. I overheard him mention his point of destination, and very shortly the train called, in loud, stentorian tones announced that the train this chap wished to take was ready."

The minutes passed, the young man continued with his friends, until happening to glance at the clock he noticed that it lacked just one minute of his train time. He followed him down the stairs, through the corridor on down to the iron gates—I will bring this tale to a close by telling you that his train was just vanishing the yards when he reached the far end of the platform. That fellow fully intended to leave on that train. That train was going to exactly the place he wanted to reach. He had his mind made up to go. He had transportation in his pocket—but he procrastinated—he delayed.

Get Aboard Now
"The very same thing is going to happen to folks in North Dakota in connection with The Daily Tribune's Grand Prize Distribution, if they are not careful. This campaign is just like that young man's train in a good many ways. It is a big, luxurious train and it goes right through to the land of fortune without a single stop and it will make the trip in mighty quick time, too. It is waiting for you now, you have been warned that it will leave very soon, and if you don't get aboard you are likely to never get nearer the Hudson Sedan, Studebaker, Oakland, Nash and Overland touring cars than that fellow got to his destination. We can call out the advantages of this campaign for you, but we can't make you get into it. The caller announced that chap's train, but he couldn't go and drag him aboard."

Campaign Just Begun
All of the foregoing was recited with one idea in mind, and that was to bring the ambitious, energetic, energetic of this county, and all adjoining counties, those who have not already entered, to a realization of the fact that this great circulation building campaign as a result of which $10,000 in wonderful prizes will be distributed broadcast throughout this section, is just getting under way, and that the proper time to enter the race is right now.

There are 25 big prizes in this $10,000 list. Everyone of them is to be given free to those who will assist in further increasing the circulation of the Tribune. The prize list is led by three standard make automobiles. After the motor cars there are marvelous phonographs, chests of silver, merchandise orders, special prizes and cash commissions.

There is no expense or even any sort of obligation attached to getting into this campaign and winning one of the prizes.

Is Sparetime Worth
Those who secure the most votes are going to carry off these awards, from the automobiles on down through the list, and these votes are to be secured in just two ways: by clipping the free vote coupons from The Daily Tribune and by securing prepaid subscriptions to this publication. A little spare time work among friends neighbors, and acquaintances for the next few weeks and one of the wonderful awards can be yours.

As stated before, the campaign is just starting. The first list of early entrants hasn't even appeared yet. This list will be published Monday and your name should be in it. You will find the Nomination Blank in the display advertisement on another page of this issue. Just clip, fill out and send it in as directed to the Campaign Manager, Bismarck Tribune, Bismarck, N. D., and he will credit you with $500.00 free votes to which the blank entitles you and will also furnish you pointers on how to conduct a winning campaign for votes.

Don't procrastinate—Don't delay—Enter now!

FARMERS-THRESHERS MEET
Steele, N. D., Aug. 14.—The meeting of the threshermen and farmers called by county agent Arnold resulted in an agreement between better than 70 farmers and threshers who were present. The wage scale and amount per bushel which was agreed to be paid and charged resulted as follows: Eight cents per bushel for oats and barley in the shock where the cook car is with a thresher and 12 cents a bushel for wheat and rye where the cook car went with the machine a charge of 7 and ten cents for threshing where the farmers boarded the crew, the is the art of preparing foods that supply in digestible form all the nutriment the body needs for the sultry days when the vitality is low and the appetite is "fussy."

Shredded Wheat

is a cooling food, rich in the elements that build healthy tissue without heating the blood. Keeps the body buoyant and the mind alert and active. Contains all the bran you need for stimulating bowel movement—a peppy food for old and young.

Two Biscuits with milk or cream make a complete, nourishing meal. Eat it for breakfast with sliced bananas or prunes; for lunch with berries; for dinner with sliced peaches, apricots, stewed raisins, or fresh fruits. Ready-cooked, ready-to-eat.

AUTOS CRASH AT INTERSECTION

Automobiles driven by Senator Fred Mees of Mandan and John Carlson, living north of the city, collided at the intersection of Main and Broadway in the west end of the city Saturday night. A wheel was torn off of each machine. Neither was hurt.

Laxatives Replaced

By the Use of Nujol

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try
